

As designers we need to consult less...
and instead listen more.

In fact they're the actual experts.
Designers who parachute in with solutions usually bring the wrong ones.

that communities aren't problems to solve.
In disability justice its often mentioned
THE PEOPLE AFFECTED MOST SHOULD LEAD!!!

DESIGN HAS ALWAYS BEEN IN COMMUNITIES
the most transformative
designs have no BUDGET
& no BRIEF
ZINES. MURALS.
PROTEST SIGNS.
MUTUAL AID NETWORKS..

the list of forms of advocacy through design is amazingly and beautifully long.
communities have always been designing.
it's about time we include them in our own design conversations.

{ THERE IS NO
NEUTRAL DESIGN }

Every designed object carries the assumptions of whoever made it.
About who's normal, who matters,
whose body is the default.
It's not an accident.

DESIGN REPRODUCES THE WORLD IT WAS MADE IN

KEEP ASKING
THE UNCOMFORTABLE
QUESTIONS

" DESIGN JUSTICE IS INTERESTED IN TELLING STORIES THAT AMPLIFY, LIFT UP, AND MAKE VISIBLE EXISTING COMMUNITY - BASED DESIGN SOLUTIONS, PRACTICES, AND PRACTITIONERS "

This edition looks at Design Justice
by Sasha Costanza-Chock

- a collection of visual literature reviews combining research, reflection, and design.
This project reimagines academic literature reviews as something personal, tactile, and creative.
Each zine in the series explores a single book or theme through illustrated spreads, diagrams, and design elements rooted in fieldwork, annotation, and care.

A FRAMEWORK

REPRESENTATION
ISN'T ENOUGH

Diverse faces in an unjust system is still an unjust system.

More inclusive stock photos. Wider user personas. Diverse hiring. All good but also all insufficient. Justice asks who controls what gets made, not just who appears in it.

DIVERSITY WITHOUT STRUCTURAL CHANGE IS JUST DECORATION
